The changes to the specification dated 4/10/2009 have been approved by the Examiner.

The status of the claims is as follows:

Claims 1-19, 31, and 34 have been cancelled;

Claims 24, 26, and 29 have been withdrawn from consideration; and Claims 20-23, 25, 27, 28, 30, 32, 33, 35-40 (39 and 40 newly added) are herein addressed below.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 20-23, 25, 27, 28, 30, and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Scott (2,172,091) in view of Royce et al. (4,233,780). As shown below, Schott ('091) discloses a plastic/rubber seal having tapered shoulders, a sealing lip, and a base having a trapezoidal solid base.

All of the elements of the instant invention are discussed and shown in figure 5 above except providing the seal to have a shore hardness between 40 and 60. Royce et al. (4,233,780) disclose a seal having a shore hardness of 45 (column 2, line 21). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the seal of Scott ('091) with a shore hardness of 45 as taught by Royce et al. (4,233,780) since the shore hardness of seals are well known and would have been a matter of design choice. Furthermore, the seal of Scott ('091) would operate equally as well with a shore hardness of 45.

Claims 33 and 35-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Scott (2,172,091) in view of Kennedy (5,584,143). All of the elements of the instant invention are discussed in detail above except providing the seal to be mounted on an edge of a double pane glass panel. Kennedy ('143) discloses a double panel glass panel assembly. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the seal of Scott ('091) to be used on a double pane glass assembly as taught by Kennedy ('143) since a double pane glass assembly allows one to see through the panel and still seal the periphery about the glass pane assembly.

The applicant's arguments have been considered but all are not deemed persuasive. With respect to the applicant's arguments of the base being of trapezoidal shape, the Examiner's agrees with the applicant. With respect to the applicant's arguments that Scott fails to recite the flexible portions having a shore A hardness between 40-60, the Examiner agrees. But, as clearly discussed in the 35 U.S.C 103 above, Royce et al. disclose a sealing portion having a hardness between 40-60. Furthermore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the seal of Scott with a hardness between 40-60 since it is well known to form weather seals with different hardness's bases on experimental and scientific data and desirability, as well as the environment. Still furthermore, the applicant is arguing Royce et al. as not being of a single flexible material. Again, the applicant is arguing the references individually and not the combination thereof. Royce et al. merely teaches the fact that there are seals (there are many many seals) which teach a shore hardness between 40-60 and that assigning a shore hardness to a part of a seal is well known. With respect to claim 33, the applicant again argues the references individually and not the combination thereof.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
